

DRILLED INTO A VAULT

Daring Burglars Loot the Chicago Postoffice.

WAGON LOAD OF STAMPS SECURED

A Long Tunnel Helped the Robbers at Their Task—The Barest Chance Prevented Their Making a Half Million Haul.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Burglars broke into a vault of the Chicago postoffice some time between Saturday night and Monday morning and stole stamps to the value of $74,610.

Postoffice officials believe the cash vault was the objective and that in the darkness the robbers mistook the stamp vault for the great treasure box. Had they been successful in entering the cash vault they would have secured from $200,000 to $500,000.

Of the stamps stolen only $69,888 can be realized on by the robbers, as $1,722 is represented by "postage due" stamps.

The police and secret service forces are working on the theory that some employees of the postoffice are implicated in the robbery, and several are under surveillance.

The postoffice is a temporary affair on the lake front, a new postoffice now being in course of construction.

The robbers took from the vault booty enough to load a good sized wagon. In the vehicle they drove away, and beyond Michigan avenue no trace of them can be found by the police.

Went Through a Tunnel.
The east end of the postoffice rests on piles, the space from the floor to the ground being boarded up. Through the one small door on the lonely lake front side entrance was effected.

A tunnel 300 feet long which had been left in the construction of the postoffice runs from near the door at the southeast corner to the side of the building. The robbers followed the windings of the tunnel until they reached the stamp vault.

The door through which the robbers entered is in a little ten foot wooden annex to the main building. It is three feet square and has not been used evidently since the annex was built. It hangs on rusty hinges that will bear this theory out.

When the thieves reached the main wall of the postoffice, they found a dozen openings large enough to admit the body of a man. The openings run the full length of the wall. They were left there ostensibly for the purpose of ventilation.

With a drill they perforated the steel bottom of the vault and knocked out a piece large enough to afford a space to admit a man. They must have been days in the work, as there were ninety-seven drill holes.

The test of the work was easy. The stamps stolen filled enough boxes to cause half a dozen men to make several trips. The robbers did their work well, not a stamp being overlooked.

Largest Stamp Theft on Record.
The stamps were placed in a wagon that was driven to the southeast corner of the postoffice and out of sight of prying eyes on Michigan avenue.

Inspector Stuart says:

"It was the largest stamp robbery ever committed in the history of the postal service in this country. To get to the vault the men dug through the brick foundation wall, and a hundred feet or so farther on they encountered another wall, and this also they dug through. On the way they met with a number of pipes, and as the floor only is two feet and in some places three feet above the ground they tunneled under the pipes. Their whole course is marked plainly in this way. The whole sale stamp vault, like a cashier's vault and the money order vault, is supported by a brick wall. It forms a square and before the robbery was airtight. In this the robbers broke two holes possibly to obtain more air, for the place undoubtedly was foul, or to have an extra place of egress in case of discovery. For light they used dry battery lanterns, one of which they left behind. This battery and the wagon tracks are the only clues we have at present."

The robbery was carried out in practically the same manner that the smelter in San Francisco was looted of many thousands of dollars in bullion, and it is thought the thieves conceived the scheme after reading about the San Francisco theft.

The President in Connecticut.
Hartford, Conn., Oct. 22.—President Roosevelt arrived here last night. He is accompanied by Commander Cowley, his brother-in-law, at whose summer residence he is stopping; Secretary Clegg, Mr. Kiley and Mr. Barnes, one of Mr. Roosevelt's assistants. Tomorrow the president will go to Yale college.

Texas Investigated.
Austin, Tex., Oct. 22.—Governor Sayre has signed a resolution of the last legislature providing for an investigation of every state institution in the state to ascertain whether everything is being managed economically and correctly. The committee will go to work at once and will report to the next legislature.

Won a Fortune and Died.
Lawton, Okla., Oct. 22.—James D. Wood, who drew the capital prize in the Lawton land district at the El Reno lottery last August and settled on a claim valued at nearly $50,000, is dead of typhoid fever. His widow will come into undisputed possession of the property.

Ozell Talks With the President.
Washington, Oct. 22.—Governor Ozell of New York was among the callers at the White House yesterday. He had a long talk with the president, but declined to discuss for publication the object of his visit.

SONS OF YALE PARADE.

Enthusiasm Let Loose—The Streets Ablaze With Colored Lights.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 22.—Six thousand graduates and students of Yale marched in gay torchlight parade last night in celebration of the university's bicentennial. The enthusiasm of the returning graduates and of the whole student body was let loose. The march was through streets bordered with blue and brilliant with the radiance of many hood lanterns.

Accompanying the students and graduates and acting as an escort were representatives of the militia and naval forces of the state, while several of Yale's sister institutions of learning contributed their quota of members of the student body to assist in the academic parade. Harvard, Princeton, Trinity and Wesleyan were represented each by about twenty-five students, whose costumes in design and hue were emblematic of their respective institutions.

The route of the procession was about two miles in length. Starting from the campus, the parade passed through the broad highway of the Phelps gat., and, circling the green, proceeded in review before the stand in front of city hall.

There President Hadley, Governor McLean, Mayor Stanley of New Haven, Mayor Harrison of Hartford, Secretary Anson Phelps Stokes of the Yale corporation and other men of prominence were stationed. From the reviewing stand the route of the parade was through residential streets toward the western part of the city and thence through part of the business section to the residence of President Hadley and back to the campus.

The entire parade was spectacular in the extreme, the costuming being of an ordinal and picturesque character, appealing at once to the eye and the imagination. All the periods of the history of Yale and the country in the last 200 years were well symbolized.

The welcome to the returning sons was voiced officially in a brief chapel by President Arthur Twining Hadley of the university, and responses to the greeting were made in behalf of the city, state and nation and of the universities of Great Britain and continental Europe. Delegates from thirty foreign universities and societies and from 125 American institutions were represented in the audience, which filled every part of the gray stone chapel.

Dual Party in Danger.

Hallifax, N. S., Oct. 22.—While the royal yacht Osiris, with the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall on board, was steaming out of the harbor here on her way to Newfoundland she hit a buoy and careened badly. The engines were quickly reversed, and after much maneuvering the vessel was righted after narrowly escaping grounding. The accident was due to the bad handling of the Osiris by Commander Winslow.

Will Appoint New Heir to Throne.

Peking, Oct. 22.—A new heir to the throne will be appointed when the dowager empress meets Prince Ching and several of the viceroys at Kanton, capital of the province of Hunan. The present heir has proved to be dissipated and uncontrollable. Moreover, his father's status as a banished prince makes his succession contrary to Chinese traditions.

Steel Corporation Pays Up.

Columbus, O., Oct. 22.—The constituent companies of the United States Steel corporation doing business in Ohio have just complied with the state law imposing taxes upon foreign corporations. The sum of $1,118 was paid for the American Sheet Steel company and $2,200 for the American Tin Plate company.

Windfall For Trenton.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 22.—By the death of Mrs. Elmina Bellerjeau at Trenton a young man this morning this city, under an old law, fell heir to an estate of cash amounting to $20,000. The woman died without heirs, and her estate escheated to the place of residence for the benefit of the poor in the municipality.

Carnegie Returning.

London, Oct. 22.—The American line steamer St. Louis, which sails from Southampton for New York Saturday next, will take among her passengers Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Lord Pauncefote, the British ambassador to the United States, and Lady Pauncefote.

Monthly Revenue Statement.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The monthly statement of the collections of internal revenue issued by the commissioner of internal revenue shows that the total receipts for September were $21,004,447, a decrease as compared with September, 1904, of $1,843,399.

Boiler Explosion Injures Three Men.
Elizabeth City, N. C., Oct. 22.—A boiler of boilers at Fleetwood & Jackson mill at Elizabeth City, N. C., exploded, injuring three men, one perhaps fatally, two, $20,000; insured.

IN HUB MARKETS

Quotations on the Leading Products in Demand.

Boston, Oct. 22.—Butter is well sustained at the stronger prices, with a pretty fair demand noted. Extra creamery, small pkgs, 23 1/2-24 1/2; northern fresh, round lots, 22 1/2-23 1/2; western, 22 1/2-23 1/2; eastern, 22 1/2-23 1/2; dairies, 18 1/2-19 1/2; firsts, 18 1/2-19 1/2; middles, 17 1/2-18 1/2; jobbing, 16 1/2-17 1/2.

Cheese continues in steady demand at steady prices. Round lots, new, 9 1/2-10 1/2; sage, 11 1/2-12 1/2; jobbing, 10 1/2-11 1/2.

Choice fresh eggs are in limited supply, with the market firm. The best storage eggs are steady, with the market firm. Early storage, 17 1/2-18 1/2; fresh western, 20 1/2-21 1/2; choice Michigan, 22 1/2-23 1/2; eastern, 22 1/2-23 1/2; jobbing, 16 1/2-17 1/2.

New beans are slow about getting in from the west, and hence the market is pretty firm, under the rather limited supply of old beans.

There is a good demand for the best fall apples, at steady prices. Winter fruit is beginning to come forward, and on the whole is fully as abundant as expected. The apple crop is decidedly irregular. Some sections of Maine have a good crop, while other sections have very few. As a whole there is doubtless about half of a full crop in New England, while in some sections of the west there is a good crop. Other sections have very few apples. In the country good prices are being paid for the best winter apples; even better than this market will warrant at present. Here quotations are steady. Gravenstein, $2.50-2.75; western Ben Davis, $3.00-3.50; pippins, $2.00-2.50; porters, $2.50-3.00; No. 1 Baldwins, $3.00-3.25; fair quality, $2.50-2.75; fancy greenings, $3.00-3.25; fair quality, $2.50-2.75; No. 2, all grades, $1.75-2.25; snows, $2.50-3.00; pointed sweet, $2.50-3.25; other sweets, $1.50-2.00; mixed apples, $2.00-2.50; bushels, $5.00-5.50; choice and jobbing lots, 50c-60c per bushel.

Peas continue in full supply, and are rather easy, except for the choicest lots. Barleths, $1.75-2.50 per bushel; common varieties, 75c-85c per bushel. Grapes are in full supply, with the market rather easy. Delaware, 10c-12c; Niagara, 11c-13c; Brightons, 10c-12c; Concord, 8c-10c; Salom, 10c; Marthas, 7c-9c; Catawbas, 9c-10c; Tokays, $1.25-1.75 per bushel; jobbing, 16c-20c per bushel. Cranberries are pretty firm and quoted at $1.50-2.00 per bushel; retail, $1.75-2.00. Apples are in full supply and bring fair prices. They sell at $1.00-1.25 per bushel for good.

Quinces are fairly plenty, and sell at $2.00 per bushel, as to quality. Potatoes are considerably firmer, with sweets about steady. Hebrons, 65c-70c per bushel; Green mountains, 65c-70c; bls, $2.00-2.25; eastern shore, sweet, $1.25-1.50 per bushel; Norfolk, $1.50; Jersey double head, $1.75. Celery is in full supply and sells at 50c per dozen for ordinary, with Tusque at $1. Spinnach is still low, at 10c per bushel. Cauliflowers are higher, at $1 per bushel. Radishes are quoted at 25c per bushel; lettuce, 25c-35c per bushel. Cucumbers are pretty firm, at $4.00 per bushel, as to quality. Squashes are quoted at $2.00-2.50 per ton, as to variety and quality. Pumpkins sell at 40c per bushel. Citrons are in moderate supply, and sell at 25c per bushel. Tomatoes sell at 75c-85c, with green at 35c-40c. Onions continue steady at about $2.75 per bushel; but, $1. Spanish cts are sold at $1.50; peeling onions are sold at 75c-85c per bushel for yellow and at $2.00-2.50 for white.

Turkeys are rather easy at 75c-90c per pound for St. Andrews; white French, $1; white that at 35c-50c; globe white, 25c per pound. Beets are quoted at 50c per bushel; carrots, 10c; parsnips, 60c. Mint sells at 10c per dozen; cress, 35c per dozen; parsley, 10c per bushel. Cabbages are lower at $2.00-2.50 per 100; egg plants are sold at $1.25 per bushel; oyster plants are in the market at 50c per dozen. Brussels sprouts sell at 10c-15c per dozen. Mushrooms are more plenty and quoted at 75c per bushel; leeks sell at 40c per dozen. String beans are selling at $1.00-1.25 per bushel for wax and 75c-85c for green; shell beans, $2; Lima beans, $1.75; eye beans, $1.75 per bushel. Artichokes are quoted at 75c per bushel; peppers, 50c. Chestnuts are fairly plenty and jobbing at $3.00-3.25 per bushel.

Pork provisions are quiet, with prices generally unchanged, though some of the smaller items are lower. Choice heavy beef continues in short supply, with the market firm. But there is an oversupply of light and grass beef, and such sells slow and at easy prices, in some cases lower than the lowest quotations.

The mutton market is steady, with a fair trade and full supply. Veals are in moderate supply and steady. Lambs, 60c-65c; fancy and Brightons, 9c; yearlings, 40c-45c; muttons, 50c-55c; fancy, 75c; veals, 75c-10c; fancy and Brightons, 10c-11c.

Poultry continues easy, under a full supply. But trade is pretty good, and a great many lots are being moved, though at rather unsatisfactory prices. Trade is fair, feed turkeys, 50c-60c; fresh native chickens, 12c-15c; feed fowls, 10c-12c; live chickens, 9c-10c.

Hay is in very full offering, with the market rather easy. Shipplers will ship in all the hay that receivers will permit them to ship, plainly showing a desire to get some of the abundance of hay off their hands. Straw is also quiet and rather easy. Millfeed is steady, with little change. Hay, $12.00-17; fancy and jobbing, $15.00-20; rye straw, $15.00-20; cut straw, $8.00.

The arrivals of wheat at primary centers shows a sharp falling off, with evidence that farmers are aware of the strength in the wheat situation.

GERMANY WINCES.

The Bund der Industriellen Discusses "The American Danger."

Berlin, Oct. 22.—The Bund der Industriellen held a general meeting here at which was discussed "The American danger" and the new German tariff. The general secretary of the bund, Dr. Wendlandt, described "The American danger" as extremely grave and said that Germany's manufacturers were fully conscious of this danger.

He quoted figures showing the extraordinary growth of exports from the United States to Germany and the decline in the movement of goods in the opposite direction and complained that the average duties imposed by the United States is 50 per cent while that of Germany is only 10 per cent. A further hardship, he said, is the requiring of a declaration of invoices before a consular giving Americans possession of business secrets of the German manufacturers.

He asserted that the United States government maintained detectives in Germany for the purpose of discovering trade secrets and undervaluations and cited the case of a factory in Saxony which had been ruined thereby.

$800,000 RETURNED.

Lowell Bank's Loss Is Much Greater Than Was Suspected.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 22.—The loot of the Merchants' National bank by Smith, its teller, and Swift, its bookkeeper, on Thursday last is far greater than was suspected by those not directly connected with the bank. The securities and moneys returned to the directors by Hon. John C. Burke, counsel for Swift, represent a total, it is understood, of about $800,000.

Mr. Burke says that no agreement was entered upon to which his clients for, he added, that would be illegal. When told that it was understood that United States officers were searching for the men, Mr. Burke said it would be useless. It is known that Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Swift have been in communication with their husbands since the securities were returned.

It is said that the deficiency represents the amount lost through the operations of Smith and Swift. Smith was under $30,000 bond, but $8.31 as bookkeeper was not supposed to handle money and so was not bonded.

Educated Orang Outraged Dead.

New York, Oct. 22.—After an illness of two weeks, 15½ years, the educated orang out of the zoological garden in Bronx park, is dead in the monkey hospital connected with the reptile house. His death occurred a few hours after that of his brother, Brunel, who died peacefully with three doctors and two trained nurses watching over him. The four orang outages in the zoo became ill about Oct. 5, and Dr. Frank H. Miller, who was summoned to attend them, was of the opinion that they were suffering from a disease resembling typhoid fever.

More Troops For the Philippines.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Secretary Root is expected to return to Washington today or tomorrow, and he immediately will take up the important question of the situation in the Philippines. It is now admitted that the officials in Manila have had a too sanguine view of the general situation, and it is probable that the secretary will arrange for sending to the Philippines within the next few months about 10,000 troops now serving in this country.

Ready For Colozoa Execution.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Warden G. Warren Mead of Auburn prison called on State Superintendent of Prisons Collins and arranged the details connected with the execution of the assassin of President McKinley. Superintendent Collins impressed it up in the warden to be extraordinarily secretive, and in every possible way information regarding the execution will be kept from the public until after it takes place.

Fatal Duel With Revolvers.

Waco, Tex., Oct. 22.—A duel with revolvers was fought on Austin street yesterday afternoon between former Sheriff Harris and his son on one side and Dr. Loyd and his son on the other. As a result both of the Harrises are dead and Loyd and his son are under arrest charged with the killing. The trouble originated from domestic difficulties.

Minister Kills a Negro.

Madisonville, Ky., Oct. 22.—Rev. Eugene Harrison, cashier of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, shot and killed a negro named Jim Lewis and surrendered himself to the authorities. The minister discovered the negro trying to effect an entrance into his house. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Death of a Big Pennsylvanian.

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 22.—J. Daniel E. Shardt, the heaviest man in Pennsylvania, is dead of heart disease at his home in Bath, near here, aged seventy years. He weighed 493 pounds and was the father of seventeen children, eleven of whom are living, and none of them weighs less than 300 pounds.

Lipton Won't Race Next Year.

New York, Oct. 22.—Sir Thomas Lipton will not be a challenger for the America's cup next year. In an interview late last night the Irish knight flatly denied that he had any intention of building a new yacht to compete next fall for the trophy.

Minister's Legs Broken.

New York, Oct. 22.—By the collapse of a scaffold in Grace Episcopal church at Canby and Lorain streets, Williamsburg, at 11:30 last night, the Rev. William G. Lyle and eleven of his parishioners were injured. Mr. Lyle was badly senseless. Both of his legs were broken.

THAT SCHLEY LETTER.

Court of Inquiry Counsel Resurrects the Matter.

ABSENCE OF RECEIVING STAMPS.

Lieutenant Wells Explains That Point—It Was the Custom to Stamp Letters Generally—Dispatches Were Sometimes Held.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The Schley court of inquiry resumed its sessions yesterday, and after several witnesses had been recalled Lieutenant B. W. Wells, Jr., secretary of Commodore Schley during the Cuban campaign, resumed the testimony which he had begun on Friday.

He narrated the battle of July 3 and was then questioned at some length by Mr. Rayner before he was turned over to Captain Lemly and Mr. Hanna for cross examination.

When the lieutenant had finished his description of the battle, the question of dispatches was taken up. The cablegram from Secretary Long dated Washington, May 27, to the cable office at Mole St. Nicholas, Haiti, directing that it be delivered to the next American war vessel to arrive and informing Commodore Schley "that the most absolutely urgent thing now is to know positively whether the Spanish division is in Santiago," etc., was shown the witness.

He stated that it had been received by Commodore Schley on May 30. The colon had been discovered in the harbor of Santiago by Commodore Schley on the morning of May 23.

"Am I right in saying that you perhaps saw more of Commodore Schley during the whole of this Spanish war than any one else and came in contact with him as much as anybody?" questioned Mr. Rayner. "What was his general bearing, conduct and manner on any day in which there was a battle or any other thing?"

Schley's Bearing in Battle.

"So far as my observation went he was thoroughly fearless."

The witness stated that never to his knowledge was a single paper lost.

Mr. Hanna exhibited to the witness a letter dated May 30, 1898, and written by Commodore Schley, which contained a reference to the dispatches which had been brought by the Dupont and giving a general account of the operations of the flying squadron. He sought by this letter, as stated by him, to show that the No. 7 dispatch, known as the "Dear Schley" letter, was received on May 22 and not on May 23.

The witness said: "The conjunction of this letter and the changed indorsement in lead pencil on the back of one of the dispatches would seem to indicate that the dispatch might have been received May 22."

Mr. Hanna then questioned Lieutenant Wells closely about Admiral Schley's papers, but he repeated that since he had boxed them up and turned them over to Admiral Schley in 1898 he had not seen them until he saw them recently at the navy department.

He said that he remembered absolutely nothing whatever about the receipt of dispatch No. 8 from Admiral Sampson in Commodore Schley saying that the Spanish fleet was probably at Santiago except what was revealed by the receiving stamp indorsements.

Dispatches as Testimony.

On this dispatch, he said, as on the "Dear Schley" letter, there had at first been an indorsement showing its receipt on May 24 and subsequently another written over the first, indicating its receipt on the 23d of that month.

"Your pencil marks, then, cannot be taken as a very clear indication as to when these papers were received?" questioned Mr. Hanna, but the witness replied that they could be, saying: "Generally I should say yes. I do not pretend to be infallible on that subject."

"But the 'Dear Schley' letter, you say, would seem to have been received on the 23d of May?"

"Yes."

"So that although actually received on the 23d it bore the indorsement of '23 and 24'?"

"One bore a date '23,' and another bore a date '24,' as I recollect."

"How do you account specifically for the absence of the receiving stamp imprint on the duplicate 'Dear Schley' dispatches?" he asked.

"It is possible that I jotted down that note on them when they were handed to me. Of course it was the custom to put the receiving stamp on letters generally."

"Can it be possible that the commodore retained them for some time?"

"It is possible, but not probable. He sometimes held dispatches in the cabin for a time, but he generally sent them down as soon as received."

Mr. Hanna then put in as testimony dispatches Nos. 5 and 6, both from Admiral Schley, directing a strict blockade at Cienfuegos, and a letter inclosing the McCalla memorandum.

Irving and Miss Terry in New York.

New York, Oct. 22.—Sir Henry Irving and Ellen Terry appeared at the Knickerbocker theater last night. A revival of "King Charles II." in which Sir Henry first won American favor, was selected as the opening production. The costumes were copied from the famous pictures by Van Dyke, and the scene in which Charles surrenders to Cromwell was an exact reproduction of Van Dyke's conception of it.

Shot Himself to Please His Wife.

Vienna, Oct. 22.—The failure of the Boden Credit bank at Odenburg, Hungary, has led to a singular suicide. Manager Schladerer, whose extensive defalcations caused the failure, made a confession to his wife, who handed him a pistol and advised him to kill himself, which he did.

KUMORS OF MISS STONE.

Are Has Her Hidden in Salonika? May Not Be With Brigands.

London, Oct. 22.—The Sofia correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says an improbable rumor comes from a Bulgarian source that Miss Ellen Stone, the American missionary, is hidden in the village of Salonika.

Mr. Dickinson, the American consul general at Constantinople, who has been at Sofia endeavoring to secure Miss Stone's release, adheres to his conviction of the complicity of the Macedonian committee in the abduction of Miss Stone. In missionary circles it is urged that when the ransom for Miss Stone's release is paid amnesty ought to be granted to the brigands and all records of the agreement with them canceled.

A dispatch from Vienna says the latest news from Sofia is to the effect that Miss Stone and her companions are no longer with the brigands. They are vaguely described as being held elsewhere.

Melmoth Released From Jail.

London, Oct. 22.—Patrick A. Melmoth, member of parliament for the north division of Leitrim, who was sentenced April 23 to six months' imprisonment as a first class misdemeanant for publishing in his paper, the Sligo Champion, seditious libels calculated to interfere with the administration of justice, has just been released from Kilmalham jail. A large crowd of people repeatedly cheered him and eagerly crushed forward to shake hands with him. Melmoth will sail for New York with John Rodmond and John O'Donnell on the White Star line steamer Majestic, which leaves Liverpool on Wednesday, touching at Queenstown the following day.

Tallyho Accident.

Buffalo, Oct. 22.—A big sightseeing tallyho loaded with exposition visitors was struck and overturned by a Niagara street car last night. Four women were more or less seriously injured, and every one of the passengers was badly shaken up. Edward Cleary, who was driving the tallyho, was arrested on the charge of criminal negligence. The seriously injured are: Mrs. Robert Denain, Pittsburg, both legs painfully injured; Miss Marie Sprague, Pittsburg, concussion of the brain and skull injuries; Mrs. Margaret Russell, Pittsburg, ankle sprained; Mrs. Nellie Winslow, Pittsburg, shoulder injured.

Burlington Stock Bought.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 22.—Regarding the purchase of the Burlington railway system, the following information is given: The Great Northern and the Northern Pacific have purchased jointly 39.75 per cent of the stock of the Burlington, the par value of which is $107,577,200. In payment for this stock they have issued joint collateral stock to the amount of $215,154,400. Additional bonds up to a total of $222,400,000 may be issued for the purchase of more stock. The authorized stock of the roads is $125,000,000.

Negro Bank Suspends.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 22.—The Dime Savings bank of Kingston, N. C., has suspended payment. The liabilities are stated to be $6,000 and assets $15,000. The bank is officered and managed by negroes, and a run on it by negro depositors caused the trouble. Charles W. Dunn, the president, says the suspension is only temporary, the trouble being caused by the failure of a company that was financing a prospective railroad to Kingston.

Lunatics Break Away.

Mattawan, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Charles Marino and Frank Hand, prisoners in the Mattawan State Hospital for the Insane, have escaped by sawing through the bars of a window in the infirmary attached to the asylum. Marino was serving a thirty year sentence for murderous assault, and Hand was serving a sentence of fifteen years for burglary. Both are regarded as dangerous criminals.

"Alice of Old Vincennes."

Cleveland, O., Oct. 22.—The first performance of the dramatization of the novel "Alice of Old Vincennes" was given at the Euclid Avenue Opera House last night. The play proved a

Witnesses for Schley Contradict
 Capt. Sigsbee.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The feature of the testimony before the Schley court of inquiry today was the positive assertion by two witnesses that Capt. Sigsbee in a conversation with Commodore Schley when the flying squadron arrived off Santiago said the Spanish fleet was not in the harbor, as he had ample opportunities for knowing if the Spanish fleet had been in the harbor.

This testimony corroborated that of Lieut. Marlbee and is in flat contradiction to the testimony of Capt. Sigsbee, who testified that he could not remember having told Schley that the Spanish fleet was or was not in Santiago harbor.

Mr. Graham, an Associated Press correspondent who was on the Brooklyn during the Santiago campaign testified that Capt. Sigsbee came aboard the Brooklyn and Commodore Schley said to him: "Have we got them, Sigsbee?" Capt. Sigsbee replied: "No, they are not here. I have been here for a week and they are not here."

The witness said that they walked some distance, and then Commodore Schley said: "Are you sure they are not in there?" Capt. Sigsbee replied: "I have been very close to the harbor entrance two or three times. Capt. Cotton has been in and cut a cable and they are not there."

The witness said he gave Capt. Sigsbee a dispatch stating that the Spanish fleet were not in the harbor and Capt. Sigsbee promised to see that it was delivered.

Mr. Graham said he was on the Massachusetts when the Colon was bombarded, and that he heard Commodore Schley say his idea was to go in about 7000 yards and draw the fire of the enemy. He said he heard some conversation between Commodore Schley and Capt. Higginson about the army and ammunition the Spanish army was supposed to have brought and that as far as he knew Capt. Higginson acquiesced and did not object to the commodore's idea of the reconnaissance.

The testimony of Lieut. Potts, stating that he heard Commodore Schley say he was going in to pot the Colon was read to the witness, but he said that he had not heard it. He stated that Commodore Schley and Lieut. Potts had some conversation that he did not hear. He also said that he did not hear Commodore Schley say "Gentlemen, we are conspicuous objects here; let us get out of it."

Describing Schley's bearing during the battle of Santiago, he said: "The commodore stood all the time on the side we were firing, so that he could see what was being done. He was absolutely cool and sent continuous messages to the men to cheer them up. When Ellis' head was shot off he wiped some of the blood from his own person, and as the men picked up the body to throw it overboard, while the rest of us stood horrified, he calmly said, 'Don't throw that body over. Take it below, and we'll give it a Christian burial.' When the Viscaya went ashore the commodore went into the conning tower and shouted down the tube to the men below: 'They are all gone but one; it all depends on you boys.'"

Mr. Graham said that the Brooklyn appeared to be fighting the Spanish ships alone when the Oregon was seen coming out of the smoke.

British Black Rats.
 The British black rat, almost entirely exterminated during the last hundred years by the brown Norwegian rat, is carefully protected and preserved on an estate at Greenlees, Montgomery.

Niagara's Energy.
 The total undeveloped energy of Niagara falls is estimated by electrical experts to be 8,000,000 horsepower.

Cuttlefish Ink.
 Pliny says that the liquid of the cuttlefish was often used by the Romans as an ink. It was considered superior to the lampblack preparation, but was not used so freely on account of its much greater cost.

Hopeloss.
 English as his written is illustrated by a hotel at Lucerne, Switzerland, which announces that "the menu of this hotel leaves the guest nothing to hope for."

A Lamp Mat.
 A chamois skin dyed in any of the rich dark tints, red, green or a certain deep peacock blue, makes the best sort of lamp mat for a polished table. If the lamp is of some Egyptian or Indian design, the piece of colored leather suits it particularly well.

Forbidden Mustaches.
 In 1841 the king of Bavaria issued a proclamation forbidding the wearing of mustaches on any pretense and instructing the police to arrest offending parties and have them shaved.

An Ink Eraser.
 To remove ink stains from paper brush the paper with a feather that has been dipped in a solution of salts of lemon. Two or three applications will cause the stains to disappear.

A PUBLIC SPANKING.

THE UNRULY YOUNGSTER GOT ONLY WHAT HE DESERVED.

Why the Passengers in the Car Didn't See, as They Expected They Would, a Second Act in the Interesting Little Drama.

In one of the upper corners of the down town Ninth street car the lively little 4-year-old boy was giving his weary looking mother about all she could attend to. First he would want to stand on the seat and hammer on the window until it seemed as if the glass would just have to smash.

Then he would stand on his mother's lap with his muddy little shoes and twist her veil up into knots and push her nose the wrong way and make a fork of his fore and middle fingers and jab them into her eyes and pull down her back hair and tug at her collar and loosen her brassiere and pull down her lower lip to make it "smap" and yank at her ears and divert himself in other little comfortable ways of the sort.

Then he would demand to be set down on the floor, in the aisle, where he would pound with all his might on his mother's knees and sing at the top of his lungs until she would stop him with a warning, "Sh-sh, Willie!" Whereupon he would seize his mother's umbrella and attempt to open it in her face and bawl lustily when she attempted to take it away from him. When she endeavored to effect a cessation of his bawling, he would kick her on the shins.

The other passengers glared at the angel child and secretly hankered to own him for about 42 seconds in order to "put him next" to a few little things which he seemed not to understand. The pale, tall man, however, who was sitting right alongside the angel child's seat, seemed to be paying no attention whatever to the young one's malicious pranks. He looked straight ahead of him out of the window, nor did all of the wriggings or noise of the youngster cause him to remove his gaze from a point straight ahead. It might have been thought to look at him that he was suffering from a stiff neck and that it was therefore impossible for him to turn his head either one way or the other.

The angel 4-year-old continued to enjoy himself as the car reached the down town section. He began to make comments upon the personal appearance of entering passengers, loudly calling attention to the "big nose" of this one, to the "big mouth" of that one and the "funny looking face" of the other one. His mother said "Sh-sh" a great many times, but the kid apparently didn't hear her or didn't want to hear her. The passengers went right on lounging to have the celestial infant in a woodshed for varying periods of time, but the pale, tall man right alongside the young one kept right on looking straight ahead.

The personal characteristics of the passengers palled upon the youngster after a time, and he looked around for other ways of amusing himself. Finally he climbed up on the seat again, and slyly reaching around back of the pale, tall man's head he clutched one end of the latter's mustache and gave it a good, hard tug.

The pale, tall man didn't even wince. He didn't remove his gaze from the point directly ahead of him, but he carefully and deliberately gathered the young one in his arms, placed the young one across his knee, and, still looking out of the window and apparently totally uninterested in what he was doing, he let the young one have a round dozen on the spot where they would do the most good with an amount of resounding force that caused the young one to howl like fun.

"That's just what the kid needed in his business," thought all of the other passengers, "and I'd like to have been the one to hand him what was coming to him. But, cracky, won't his mother more than lay that fellow out, though?" They looked at the mother, waiting for the explosion. However, she seemed to take it all as a matter of course. She didn't utter a word of objection. When the pale, tall man was through spanking the young one and had deposited him in his mother's lap, the other passengers couldn't understand why she didn't open up on the spanker and tell him many things after the fashion of mothers in such cases made and provided. The kid was howling.

"You got just what you deserved from papa," was the way the mother comforted the yelling one, and then, at the street, the pale, tall man signaled the conductor and, stepping off, assisted his wife and recalcitrant son and heir to alight, while the other passengers looked sheepishly at each other after the manner of folks who feel that somehow or another they haven't got their money's worth.—Washington Star.

The Needle Cure.
 Sir James Grant, an English physician, attributes some forms of muscular rheumatism to the presence of electricity stored in the tissues. He avers that for some years he has treated cases of this kind by inserting fine steel needles into the muscles and that the electricity being drawn off, relief comes almost instantly. The Chinese have an elaborate system of treatment known as acupuncture which utilizes this idea; only they use the needles for any and every thing. Contrary to the natural supposition, the treatment does not produce much pain, the sensation being mostly confined to a pricking feeling when the skin is punctured. It is asserted that the Chinese will drive their hairlike needles into almost any part of the body without injury and that the lungs and even the heart can be probed in this way.

MEN AS THEY PASS.

A. J. Balfour, the English politician, has been elected the first president of the London and Counties Professional Golfers' association.

Andrew Comstock McKenzie, who has gone to Ecuador at the head of an exploring expedition, was a well-known newspaper man of Boston.

Ex-Governor Jones of Alabama, whom President Roosevelt has just appointed to a federal judgeship, carried, when not twenty-one years old, one of the flags of truce at Appomattox.

Ex-Governor Hogg of Texas says that about a year ago, while on his way to New York, he stopped off at Beaumont, and, having made a million or so there, he will now resume his journey to that city.

Captain A. C. Carson, formerly of Winchester, Va., has been appointed Judge of the Eighth federal district of the Philippines and will be stationed in Manila. He is a graduate of the University of Virginia.

The Duke d'Abruzzi, who has won fame as an arctic explorer, will be in this country next winter, as he has been appointed second in command of the Italian cruiser Giovanni Bausan, which will cruise in American waters.

William Cook, the sergeant major who drilled King Edward VII., then Prince of Wales, in 1861, when he was serving in the First grenadier guards, has just retired from active work. He has been for the last thirty years a sanitary inspector.

The friends of the late Lieutenant Commander Jesse M. Koper, U. S. N., who lost his life in the line of duty while in command of the gunboat Petrel, propose to erect a tablet to his memory at the United States Naval academy at Annapolis.

The people of Boston are planning a gift for Captain Frank Wildes when he becomes a rear admiral this winter. He is a native of Boston, and he commanded the cruiser Boston in the battle of Manila Bay. The gift may be a jeweled sword or a house.

John MacDone, who has been known as the "Patriarch of Connemara," has just died at the age of one hundred and twenty-five in his cottage at Errislakin, near Clifden, at the edge of the Atlantic, on the west coast of Ireland. He was born in 1776 and had a vivid recollection of the landing of the French under General Humbert at Killala in 1798.

THE WRITERS.

Victorien Sardou was educated for the medical profession and took to playwriting because he was so poor. He now lives in a house that cost him $150,000.

All novelists of today do not kipling with the rush of the age. Kipling began on "Klm" eight years ago, and David Christie Murray has been working seven years on his new novel, soon to be published.

Kathryn Tynan, the Irish writer, is Mrs. Hinkson by marriage. She was born at Dublin forty years ago. At twenty-five Miss Tynan published her first volume of verse, having then been writing for eight years. Since then several volumes of her verse have been printed as well as some ten novels.

Marion Crawford believes that the pen is the true implement of labor for an author. "For me," he says, "dictation is impossible, and I find that if I myself operate a typewriter the result is a lifeless string of stiff words."

THE REVIEWER.

Japan announces that it stands for peace and trade. The terms are practically synonymous — peace means trade, war means stagnation and ruin. —Chicago Post.

In Texas they are beginning to prosecute fraudulent oil companies, but that won't help the lamblike investors who expected 300 per cent a month. —Syracuse Post-Standard.

The curious nonchalance with which the world regards great calamities in Asia affords further evidence, if any were needed, of the extreme improbability of any real fusion between the white and yellow peoples. —Philadelphia Times.

The revision of the French dictionary by the forty immortals has, after twenty years of diligent effort, reached the letter C. It was a wise provision which required the submission of this work to the immortals. —Memphis Commercial Appeal.

PULPIT AND PEW.

A fine new stone chapel at Ticonderoga, N. Y., has been placed at the service of all evangelical denominations.

Said the late Bishop Whipple: "Men sometimes think me too optimistic. I believe it is the business of a servant of God to be that way."

The Rev. David Bruner has retired from the ministry of the Baptist church at Burgin, Ky., at the age of ninety-three, after a service of three-quarters of a century.

Bishop Dudley of Kentucky, who presided over the Episcopal house of bishops at San Francisco, was a professor of Latin and Greek in the University of Virginia before entering the ministry.

BATTLESHIP LOGS.

Some of the ships' logs seem to have barnacles on them. —Minneapolis Journal.

The logs of some of our battleships appear to be about as reliable as the prognostications of the weather sharps. —Ridgewood (N. J.) News.

Instead of saying "He lies like a pirate," persons who want to be emphatic will say "He lies like the log of a battleship." —Chicago News.

MATRON AND MAID.

Donna Lina, widow of Crispin, is said to be at work on a biography of her husband and a collection of his unofficial letters.

A woman letter carrier is numbered among the employees of the postoffice department. This is Miss Edith Hill of Greenwich, Mass.

Eleanora Duse when not acting or rehearsing seeks absolute rest. She receives no one except old friends, and only a few of them.

Mme Labret, wife of the French lawyer who defended Zola and who is spending the autumn in Montclair, N. J., is an extraordinarily capable pianist. She has also composed several songs.

Mrs. S. M. Saunders of Mount Vernon, N. Y., has a piece of Queen Victoria's wedding cake, which was given to Mrs. Saunders' mother, Mrs. Amelia Kohler, by Lady Murgrove, a maid at the wedding.

Although eighty-seven years of age the Baroness Burdett-Coutts still takes a share in the management of her bank and directs the distribution of money in her charities, on which she has already spent $5,000,000.

Adelaide Ristori recently celebrated the eightieth anniversary of her appearance on the stage. Her mother was an actress, and the future tragic actress was brought upon the stage when a few months old in a play where a baby was needed.

It is reported that Miss Mattie Seitz of Topeka, Kan., was recently made first deputy sheriff because of her courage and persistence. She traveled thirty miles on horseback to arrest three men charged with murder and succeeded in bringing them safely to jail.

Lady Colbrooke is a clever carpenter. Besides a perfect pillar box which stood in the hall at Abington, she has made many beautiful pieces of furniture. She has a large class of women and girls each week from the district surrounding Abington to whom she teaches needlework and carpentering.

THE WHIRL OF FASHION.

Daintily finished woven corsets made of fine spun lambs' wool are among the models set forth for cold weather wear.

One of the most fashionable of the short fur coats for next season will be made with basques cut in one with the jacket.

A beautiful shade of palest corn color and another of cameo pink are shown among the new evening gloves of glace and undressed kid.

Scarlet, crimson, claret, currant, flamingo, cranberry, ruby and grenet are among the gleaming, glowing reds to be so fashionably worn this season.

Maggie toilets and costumes of black and white are to be in marked vogue, and gowns of this description formed of elegant materials and smartly designed have the merit of giving a most distinguished appearance to their wearers.

Short, very full ostrich tips are used in profusion by celebrated French milliners, and the large ostrich plumes with full drooping ends are arranged with careless grace around the crowns and brims of the new large English picture hats. —New York Post.

BEE AND HIVE.

All queenless colonies will sooner or later fall a prey to robbers.

Laying workers are caused by allowing colonies to remain queenless.

Honey, just after being taken from the hives, should be put into open vessels.

As soon as the honey season closes all surplus honey should be removed from the hive.

A moderate flow of honey during the fall months is of great importance to the bees.

Comb honey is so easily damaged that good care should be taken in storing it away.

Generally there is little made by tinkering with bees during the latter part of the season.

Fertile workers may make their appearance in any colony that has been queenless for some days.

PERT PERSONALS.

Tod Sloane is almost tempted to go into a corner and moralize on the evanescence of fame. —Washington Star.

A Boston humanitarian has discovered that the sultan has some good points. They must be of the invisible variety. —Atlanta Constitution.

President Roosevelt, though our youngest president, is a year older than the German emperor. He also knows a heap more. —Concord Monitor.

Senator Depew has always been a great talker, but one wonders now whether he will always be able to have the last word. —Indianapolis News.

Mr. Wu, Chinese minister to this country, contributed $100 to the Stone ransom fund. Mr. Wu is one of the ablest diplomats in Washington or any other capital. —Washington Times.

THE BOER WAR.

The South African war has succeeded in dragging itself out to half the length of the civil war, and it has smashed as many reputations in the period. —St. Paul Dispatch.

It is just about a year since Lord Roberts came home from South Africa, announcing that the war was over. Now they are talking about sending him back to finish the job. The fact is that it seems impossible to get the Boers to fight under the rules, and there is no umpire. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

BILL OF THE PLAY.

William A. Brady will have seven-teen companies on the road this season.

Mr. Booth Tarkington has written another play which promises brilliant success.

Leslie Stuart, who wrote the music for "Florodora," is coming over to see it produced in this country.

Julia Marlowe while abroad secured the rights to the drama "Electra," by Perez Galdos, the Spanish author.

The great financial success of the season so far has certainly been David Warfield's "The Auctioneer."

The king and queen of Roumania are about to establish little theaters in all the rural communities of their kingdom.

Sarah Bernhardt has signed a contract to produce at her theater in Paris a drama written by F. Marion Crawford.

Wilton Lackaye will have a prominent role in the production of Augustus Thomas' new play, "Colorado," in November.

Millie James, whose performance of an eleven-year-old child in "Lovers' Lane" has made her famous, is a daughter of Louis James, the tragedian.

HORSE TALK.

Andy McDowell will drive May Allen, 2,091, the rest of the season.

Eletha leads the grand circuit money winners of 1901, with Country J. a close second.

Hazel Pointer, 2,147, is a new 2.15 pacer for champion Star Pointer, 1,591. She is also a new standard performer.

Reka Direct, 2,147, is a new standard and 2.15 performer for Direct, 2,057. Her record was made over a half mile track.

It was a common remark at Lexington that it was a pity that Capt. 2,092, was not started in the Transylvania. He would surely have been a factor.

Fred Gerken of New York, owner of The Monk, 2,084, says that unless he sells that famous gelding he will go back into the hands of Geers for the campaign of 1902.

C. K. G. Killings has purchased Little Boy, 2,302, of Frank Jones, the New England millionaire, and the holder of the world's wagon record is now a member of the world's greatest stable of matinee horses.

THE ROYAL BOX.

Prince Henry of Prussia was made a full admiral of the German fleet by his brother, the kaiser, at the time of the czar's visit to Danzig.

Princess Henry of Battenberg has an extraordinary affection for canaries, and there is at Osborne quite an aviary full of her pets of this sort. Many more are kept in the apartments used by her and her children.

The queen of Sweden has been an invalid for several years and is now said to be in a precarious condition. She is a sister of the queen of Roumania, the queen dowager of the Netherlands and of the Duchess of Albany.

The late dowager Empress Frederick once asked Bismarck to bring her a glass of water, and as he handed it to her she said to a lady in waiting who sat near, "He has cost me as many tears as there are drops of water in this glass."

The prince regent of Bavaria is a hunter after the true sportsman's own heart. He will spend the whole day from 7 to 5 in the woods in pursuit of chamois or deer, though sometimes when the weather is bad he may not get a single shot.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

A new scheme of study in the Baltimore public schools provides for no home work in the four lower grades.

Solomon Lincoln has been re-elected president of the board of overseers of Harvard college, and C. F. Adams second has been elected secretary to succeed Rev. Dr. Alexander McKenzie.

Rev. Burris A. Jenkins, who has just been elected dean of Kentucky university, is thirty-two years old and one of the youngest men in this country to be chosen head of a college.

Professor W. A. Fitch has been obliged by lack of health to resign his position as secretary of the college of law of Cornell university. Professor E. W. Haffert is the new secretary.

Paul Arnold of Los Angeles, who has been appointed professor of mathematics in the University of Southern California, is a graduate of that university. He followed postgraduate studies at Cornell university and at the universities of Berlin and Leipzig.

FOWLS AND THEIR FRUIT.

When you begin to fatten fowls for market, do it just as rapidly and systematically as possible.

Air slaked lime scattered liberally over the premises and coops prevents gnats. It is an easy, cheap remedy.

There is no idle season in poultry raising. Every day brings its duties, and it is close attention to these that insures profits.

While carbolic acid is a valuable remedy, care must be taken in using it. Ten or twelve drops to a quart of water is plenty.

For swelled eyes, bathe the head daily with a warm solution made by dissolving a teaspoonful of boracic acid in a pint of water, then adding a small quantity of glycerin.

The food for fattening should always be given in the form of meal or something similar, as the digestion of soft food is much easier than grain. Mixing with milk is also a help.

Nearly a thousand vessels are lost every year. Nearly one half are wrecked.

The T Rail.
 The T rail was invented in 1830 by Robert L. Stevens, the president and engineer of the Camden and South Amboy Railroad and Transportation company, and T rails were made in Wales in 1830 on Mr. Stevens' order and laid down on a part of his road in 1831.

Wonderful Echo.
 A wonderful echo can be heard in a room in the castle of Simonetta, near Milan. A loud noise, such as a pistol shot, is repeated sixty times.

Versatile Policemen.
 Policemen in Vienna must be able to swim, row a boat and understand telegraphy.

First Wire Bridge.
 The first wire suspension bridge in the United States, if not in the world, was thrown across the Schuylkill river near the falls of Schuylkill, in Philadelphia, in 1816. Its use was necessarily restricted to foot passengers, and only eight passengers were allowed to be on the bridge at once.

Belfast.
 Belfast is Ireland's richest and most populous city.

Railroad Land Grants.
 The biggest grant ever made to a railway company was 34,000 square miles given by the United States government to the Union Pacific railway, which was opened in 1869.

Spent on Theaters.
 The American people are great theater goers and spend about $112,000,000 annually for such amusements.

Books From Plates.
 It is said that the first book printed in this country from stereotype plates was a catechism by a Mr. Watts. This work was issued in New York in the year 1813 and was compiled for the benefit of the children of several New York churches.

High Priced Cooks.
 For his services the chef of a big hotel may receive $10,000 a year, a big salary for cooking, but by no means out of proportion to his value to the hotel.

Crucible Steel.
 Crucible steel of the best quality was first made in the United States in 1823 in commercial quantities at Cincinnati by Dr. William Garrard and his brother, John H. Garrard, entirely from American materials.

Largest City Hall.
 Philadelphia has the largest city hall in the world.

Eye-lenses.
 The deposition of moisture on eye-glasses upon entering a warm room is very annoying. This can be prevented by rubbing the glasses every morning with soft potash soap. The glasses may then be polished, but an invisible film, sufficient to prevent the deposit, will remain.

Spanish Mandora.
 The favorite instrument in Spain is the mandora of the gulfar family. It is usually provided with six pairs of wire strings.

Our First Carriages.
 Albany, N. Y., claims the honor of having made the first carriage manufactured in this country. Several were built in 1814, and the event was duly noted at the time as an evidence of the spread of United States enterprise.

A Horse's Foot.
 The foot of a horse is one of the most ingenious and unexampled pieces of mechanism in the whole range of animal structure.

Odd Marriage Customs.
 In Brazil drinking brandy together may constitute a marriage; in Japan, the same with wine. To join hands, to sit together and receive congratulations are odd binding customs; also to be smeared with each other's blood or for the woman to tie a rope around the man's waist.

Michigan.
 Michigan has been called the Lake State for an obvious reason. It is better known as the Wolverine State, from the former presence of great numbers of these animals in its forests.

Public Schools.
 The first public schools were opened in 1645 in Massachusetts.

Russia's Military Power.
 On a peace footing the military power of Russia consists of 710,000 infantry, 130,000 cavalry, 133,000 artillery, 42,000 engineers and 39,000 department troops. The reserves number 2,700,000.

Height and Weight.
 To be perfectly proportioned a man should weigh twenty-eight pounds for every foot of his height.

The Red Hat.
 The practice of the cardinals of Rome of wearing red hats at ceremonials and processions was introduced by Pope Innocent IV. as a symbol to indicate the readiness of the cardinals to spill their blood for Jesus Christ.

The Palm of the Hand.
 In the palm of the hand there are 2,500 pores to the square inch. If these pores were united end to end, they would measure nearly five miles.

St. Petersburg Churches.
 St. Petersburg's churches are the most splendid of any modern churches in the world.

DOUBTFUL RUMORS.

And Still Scores of Portsmouth People Accept them as Facts.

The published statement of some stranger residing in a faraway place may be true enough, but it is generally accepted as a doubtful rumor. How can it be verified? The testimony which follows is convincing proof because it comes from a resident of Portsmouth.

Mr. Thomas E. Blake of No. 6 Green street, says:—"As I grew I always had a weak back and kidneys, and finally a painful and annoying urinary trouble developed. The kidney secretions were high colored, contained a gritty substance like sand and brick dust, and they were often thick

WEDNESDAY OCT. 25, 1906.

Mr. Wellington C. Mervin has at last the good sense to be still and let the embalming fluid take.

Mr. Lenz turns over a new leaf and tries to convince himself that the embalming fluid didn't take.

Mr. Shepard, of Brooklyn, the Tammany nominee for mayor of Greater New York, is perhaps the only man in the five boroughs who takes his nomination seriously.

Dr. George C. Loring has decided he will accept the New York pastorate and his separation from Tremont Temple will take place Oct. 27th. The people of Boston will feel deeply the parting from a pastor so beloved.

The New Age prints what it calls "Editorial Nuggets from Bryan's Paper." But it neglects the wrong word. It is generally used in connection with the tyrant gold. They never say nuggets of silver but lumps of mass's pig or bars.

And now some of the Turkish officials are declaring that the kidnapping of Miss Stone is part of a plot to which she herself agreed, to create sympathy for the Macedonian committee. This is one of the usual base insinuations of the unscrupulous when they wish to shift upon others the consequences of their own guilelessness, and will deceive nobody.

Persons attending the trial of one of the accused murderers of Governor Campbell in Kentucky are searched for concealed weapons. But this is an outrage. For time immemorial the carrying of weapons has been an inalienable right of Kentuckians. To deny them the right, even temporarily and in the limits of the court room, is scarcely to be suffered. Revolutions have grown out of slighter causes.

France pays a high price for a public's unqualified alliance with an attorney. He is not so much in the money Russian borrow every time she sends her to visit the republic. The high price is to be found in the knowledge of the entire world that the alliance is made to get money with and only last as long as the money is forthcoming or is needed for Russia's world dominating ambitions.

Industrial activity at home and comparative stagnation in the countries which export to our customers abroad have not been the only factors in the statistics of the trade. It has been noted that our exports for the month of September amounted to $106,457,222, against $115,269,722 for the same month last year, a decrease of a little over $8,000,000. At the same time imports increased from $55,565,669 in September last year to $67,290,493 this year, or something less than $8,000,000. The excess of exports over imports for the month fell from $50,891,553 a year ago to $38,876,729. The loss in exports is substantially covered by the three items of cotton, corn and copper.

SAG HARBOR TONIGHT.

The peculiar distinction of Herne's Sag Harbor company, at Music Hall this evening, rests in the nicety with which each one of the character roles has been fitted with its interpreter, or vice versa, as you may choose to regard it. It has been a matter of marvel not only in New York, but in Boston and Chicago, the manner in which the players of this piece do not seem so much to be playing parts as to be living the lives of the actual persons they are interpreting. The special distinction of the performance of Sag Harbor then obtained is the effect of almost perfect illusion. It does not seem to be a play set in painted scenes, but rather a page from real life on which the auditor for the time is permitted to gaze. Those distinctions have been remarked by everybody who has seen Sag Harbor—"a page torn from real life"—has become almost as common a phrase as "Sag Harbor—better than Shore Acres"—which is now inseparably attached to the announcement of the production.

The ladies of Herne's Sag Harbor company are an attraction individually and collectively. The beauty of Miss Chrystal Home, the accomplished daughter of the distinguished author, has been compared with the greatest emotional actresses and the most beautiful women that the American stage has seen in the past decade. Miss Home plays the emotional role of Martha Fosse in a way that leads to a comparison with the great Italian actress Duse. Miss Ed Smith is one of the veterans of the American stage and needs no further words of introduction. She has theatrically "mothered" Adelaide Neilson, Mary Anderson, Margaret Mathey, Julia Marlowe, and almost every other native star actress in the past thirty years.

NEIL BURGESS HIMSELF COMING.

The County Fair is just what the program calls it—"A picture of New England life." It is one of the most natural pictures ever presented to theatre-goers, and for its presentation in such form, all credit is due to Mr. Neil Burgess, the inventive comedian who, as well as a mechanic of considerable merit, the production will be seen in Music Hall next Friday evening, and with Mr. Burgess in the title role, as "Abigail Pine," the find hearted spinner, no better attraction can be seen this season.

The County Fair gives a series of quaint and life-like pictures of New England farm life which is altogether delightful. As a piece of genuine and life-like character painting Mr. Burgess' "Abigail" can justly take rank with the Rip Van Winkle of Joseph Jefferson, also the Joshua Whitecomb of Denham Thompson, and in many respects it exceeds these famous roles. The play abounds with so many humorous situations that it is impossible to say which excites the most. It also contains all sorts of mechanical work, and the introduction of a husking bee, and several horses—all lend reality to the scenes. The play is well acted throughout, and better than all, it is pure and clean. The delicious old man and the pure maiden are equally pleased. It appeals to the heart, not the passions.

A SUCCESSFUL PIAY.

Joshua Simpkins, one of the successful plays of the day, with the masses, will be produced here Saturday afternoon and evening.

The delightful characteristics of these plays are the quaint costumes worn by many of the characters, and the country style of speech and actions, while true and natural, and have one closer to nature, keeps an audience in continuous laughter, and it is and enjoys itself hugely at the succession of picturesque surprises. One of the pleasing features of Joshua Simpkins is the fine orchestra that furnishes their part of the performance between acts with beautiful operatic melodies and sensational descriptive pieces in which mechanical effects are introduced. This company also carries a fine band, which will parade the principal streets on the day of performance in this city, dressed up in regular wheat-field style, and is said to create more fun in the street than the clowns at the Barnum show. The company carry all their own special scenery, and during the action of the comedy many singing and dancing specialties are introduced.

SKY FARM AT BOSTON MUSEUM.

"A rustic revelation" is what somebody calls Kidder's Sky Farm and the alliteration is apt. The Boston Museum has been packed to the doors since the merits of this remarkable play have become generally known, and the advance sale of seats is enormous. It is a performance that appeals alike to gallery and orchestra.

for the "one touch of nature" that "makes the whole world kin" dominates this superb production! From the first scene in the clergyman's house where the strains of "Greenland's icy mountains" rise sweetly over the beautiful Berkshire valley to the realistic representation of Darius Nixon's barn—with a barn dance that stirs the blood—pure love, dramatic incident, fine acting, and scenery that seems a part of nature itself, enthrall the auditor through four absorbing acts.

Mr. Charles Frohman's cast for this play is the talk of the theatrical world.

Summed up briefly Sky Farm is a success that all should see, for its fun, its pretty love scenes, its touches of nature, its magnificent scenery, its real baby, and its two and a half hours of tense, palpitating, everyday interest!

The final curtain falls at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and at 10:30 o'clock at night giving out of town patrons ample opportunity to catch their trains.

VALUE OF ADVERTISING.

Nothing Except the Mint Can Make Money Without It.

Many advertisers are driven out of the field because self constituted authorities have led them to expect too much. The amount of rubbish which a glib advertiser can sometimes induce a business man to believe is simply amazing. He is assured in the most solemn and emphatic manner that a certain investment in certain mediums will infallibly bring him profit. Advertising is represented as if it were founded on principles as immutable as those of geometry. The victim yields to the tempter and funds, after he has spent his money, that advertising is about as intricate and uncertain as other branches of business. Fooled and disappointed, he puts advertising down as a fraud and men connected with it as impostors or swindlers.

This conclusion is unfair, but it is human. There is a world of truth in the dictum, attributed to Gladstone, that nothing except the mint can make money without advertising. About the value of advertising in general there is no more doubt than the rising of the sun. But the result of an untried plan can no more be predicted than the amount of crops in the sky when the sun rises tomorrow.—National Advertiser.

YORK COUNTY CROPS.

The Board Bulletin for Maine for October issued monthly by the state board of agriculture, contains a very interesting article on "Stock Feeding," which at the present time is a matter of considerable discussion among the farmers. A newspaper bulletin of the Maine Agricultural Experiment station, on "The Cinch Bug," is given, describing the insect and telling of the damage it has wrought in western Maine and the remedies therefor. The average of crop conditions, Sept. 1, as given by "The Crop Reporter," were as follows:

York county—Yield of oats, 32 bushels; barley, 28 bushels. Potato prospects, 86 per cent. Potatoes are rotting a little in most sections. Yield of ensilage corn, 13 tons. Amount of stock fader on hand, 95 per cent.

KING'S DAUGHTERS MEET.

KITTERY'S MURDERERS.

Parks and McCloud are in the Prison Blacksmith Shop.

Thomaston, Me., Oct. 23.—A reporter interviewed Warden Smith of the state prison today, regarding George H. Brainard, Portland's latest contribution to murderers' row. When Brainard was adjudged guilty of the murder of Isaiah Farnham, after an exceedingly able defence on the line of insanity, much public surprise was expressed and it was said by his counsel and others that the prison officials would never place tools in his hands for fear that in response to auditory delusions, claimed to have been responsible for his killing of Farnham, he would do his fellow convicts harm. It was expected that he would be placed under close supervision and to a considerable degree isolated from his fellows. But such was not the case.

"Do I work Brainard?" said Warden Smith in response to the reporter's question. "Of course I work with him. He is employed in the blacksmith shop and catching on very handsly. I had nothing in the line of his electrical profession. He seems philosophical and in good health, all that an exemplary prisoner should be. I anticipate no trouble with him."

With Brainard in the blacksmith shop works, Hands, whose flank movement on Grafman, in aid of the prosecution, got him off with but ten years for the Mosher murder. The darky's great strength is well employed in his work and he appears to be contented, though he sometimes has a recurrence of those weepy periods noticeable during his confinement in Portland jail. He sticks to the consolation of the pious instilled by Sheriff Pearson and takes pleasure in the ministrations of the chaplain.

Grafman works in the carriagepainting department and does skilled work. If he ever feels remorse for his atrocious crime or despair of the future he is locked within his own breast. He has never, it is thought, mentioned the murder to his fellow convicts. Having set his hand to the plough he prides himself on his stoicism. He and Hands have never met since they journeyed to Thomaston together and they never will within the prison.

Working in the blacksmith shop is Frank Palmer, the York county murderer, still in his teens. The officers speak of him as a model convict, one who has never given them a moment's anxiety and seems to take pleasure in his employment. Father is just now keenly alive to the movement for his pardon set on foot by friends who think that if he had been represented by counsel at the time of his conviction a proper representation of facts would have saved him from the life penalty.

Alfred Hurd, the Biddeford parolide, is a hopeless wreck whose twisted strands of life are almost frayed to breaking. He has been confined in the insane ward from the first and his condition steadily grew worse. The most familiar figure in the female ward is Mrs. Barrows of Kittery, imprisoned since '84 and ever since hoping for a pardon. She employs her time in the making of quilts and kindred employment and seems to take an active interest in the outer world.

There is no danger that she will emulate the hanging example set by her paramour and associate in crime, Blancy, the prison Adonis. She is now the only inmate of the prison who was sentenced to be hanged, commuted in her case to imprisonment for life shortly after the enactment of the statute abolishing capital punishment. Kittery has the unenviable distinction of two other murderers, Frank Parks, and "Bush" McCloud, both slayers of defenceless women. These are also employed in the blacksmith shop. Altogether western Maine has a preeminent position in murderers' row.

Only 23 per cent of the population of England and Wales live in the country.

Truffles in Burma.

Truffles are plentiful in Burma. The Burmese call them "kang-oo." They grow on the roots of the Lhaing grass. A local newspaper says that they should be boiled and served up hot.

European Guides.

It is said that 8,000 guides find employment annually in Europe leading American tourists "hither and yon."

Amber.

Amber comes from the shores of the Baltic sea. It is fossilized gum, and as it is only found in that one small locality it is very expensive. It usually comes in ten and twenty pound bags, although sometimes we get it in smaller ones.

Submarine Cables.

The cable between Dover and Calais, opened in 1850, was the first submarine cable. The next, laid in 1852, was from Holyhead to Dublin.

STOLEN BY GYPSIES.

Daughter of an Ohio Miller Carried Off Nine Years Ago.

BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN DROWNED

Last August, Out of Pique, One of the Romanics Told the Father of His Child's Whereabouts, and Now She Is at Home With Him.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Oct. 22.—Nine years ago the ten-year-old daughter of Peter Bell, a miller living at St. Marys, Mercer county, O., failed to return home from school. The belief was general that she had been drowned. Her father, however, refused to believe the story and spent his meager savings searching for her. He finally became convinced, however, that the girl was dead.

A band of gypsies camped near the Bell mill last August, and one of them out of revenge told Bell that his child had been abducted by a gang of gypsies nine years ago. He said he had come all the way from Mexico, Mo., to inform the father of the whereabouts of his child.

Girl Cruelly Treated. Bell at once made preparations to go in search of the girl and, with Mrs. Bell and their other daughter, started for Indianapolis by wagon. There they sold the wagon and began the journey on foot. They walked to Peoria, Ill., from there to Quincy, to Keokuk, Ia., and finally traced the band of gypsies to Carthage.

Arriving there last Saturday, the Bells found the band in camp. When the leader was confronted by the father of the girl and local officers, he drew a gun, but the officers overpowered him, and he gave up the girl. The young woman says she has been compelled to beg food and clothing for the entire band of gypsies, who at all times have treated her cruelly.

Mr. Bell intends to have the gypsies indicted and extradited to Mercer county, O., for trial. He has spent his last cent in the search for his daughter.

Yale Student Arrested.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 22.—Henry McDonald Sedley of New York, a Sheffield Scientific school freshman, was arrested, charged with the murder of Edward Corrigan of Williamantic, Conn., but Coroner Mix after a prolonged hearing ordered the charge changed to breach of peace, and Sedley was released on a $2,000 bond. Corrigan died at the New Haven hospital from injuries which he received Sunday morning. He was thrown down the steps of a luncheon wagon opposite the Yale gymnasium. It is asserted, by Sedley, the story is that Corrigan and other young men were enjoying themselves in the luncheon wagon when Sedley became exasperated at something that Corrigan said and pushed him away.

Federation Against Kohnsant.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The Chicago Federation of Labor has enlisted in the cause of the Allis-Chalmers machinist strikers and decided to fight Judge Kohnsant's injunction through the courts. The federation also decided not only to procure able lawyers for the legal struggle, but began a crusade against federal judges whose actions they resent. It was decided to request every Illinois congressman and both senators to petition congress to curtail the powers of the federal judges. President Roosevelt will also be asked to embody such a request in his first message to congress.

A Fighting Machine That Can Run.

Boston, Oct. 22.—Russia's latest American built battleship, the Retvizan, was put through her paces yesterday over a ten mile measured course off the Isle of Shoals and under natural draft attained a speed over a twenty mile course, according to her builders, of 18.01 knots per hour, one one-hundredth of a knot over her contract speed. The usual tidal correction probably will slightly increase this.

Martial Law in Cape Town.

Cape Town, Oct. 22.—The regulations for enforcing martial law in the Cape Town district have been issued. They provide for the carrying on of the civil law with a few slight modifications. The regulations were framed with every desire to interfere as little as possible with the social and business life of the peninsula. The hotels are ordered to close an hour earlier than usual.

Cuban Annexation Talk.

Havana, Oct. 22.—A mass meeting organized by the Merchants' union and economic societies will be called this week. The promoters of the meeting say the purpose is to discuss the economic situation in Cuba. Most of the speakers, if not all, will be annexationists, and it is believed that the real purpose of the meeting is to feature the idea of annexation.

THE NIGHT STORM.

The distant stars in all the sky are bright,
The gentle winds sing songs of peace tonight;
And earth in quiet peacefulness is dressed;
When, lo, from out the distant west
The rumbling voice of thunder deep
Proclaims the storm god; lightning leaps
From the dark horizon, playing
O'er the western trees that, swaying
Wildly, tell the storm god's power;
Over all the heavens tower
The great gray clouds, and rapidly
The stars are blotted from the sky,
While rains incessant beat
The ground like tiny feet,
And the thunder
Breaks a sounder
All the quiet of the night.
And the forked lightning bright
Turns to day
The misty way
Of the gray clouds' dripping path.
The wild storm's aftermath
Follows gently, and, behold,
The stars are shining as of old.
The trees are by soft winds caressed,
And earth in peacefulness is dressed.

TOWN CLOCK'S CAPTURE

BY MAX BENNETT THIRASMER.

Early one August afternoon a well dressed, businesslike looking man, carrying a small leather handbag, walked up the principal street of the village of Graytown. In the basement of the big, old fashioned country church which he approached a small door stood open. Turning from the sidewalk, he entered this door.

Once out of sight from the street he ran hurriedly up a flight of stairs and then found himself in the vestibule, which was dusky and cool after the garish light outside. He looked in. One door of the audience room was open. The sexton was sweeping the aisle and coming toward him. He tried a door at the end of the vestibule, but this was locked. Steps echoing through the empty building told him that some one was coming in at the same door by which he had entered. The man hurriedly pulled at a small door in the wall. It opened into what seemed to be a tall, narrow closet, down through the middle of which a stout wire rope ran into a rough stone floor.

Cramped as these quarters were, the man crowded himself in, holding the leather bag close to his side, and pulled the door shut after him.

Not more than three or four seconds elapsed before a young man walked rapidly through the vestibule to the open door of the audience room. "Oh, Mr. Jackson," he called to the man sweeping, "may I go up and wind the clock? It's the day to wind it, I know."

"May you? Why, certainly if you want to," was the reply. "Here are the keys," and he slid the bunch of keys along the floor of the aisle.

The boy, Rodney Galvin, picked up the keys, unlocked the door at the end of the vestibule and went clattering up a flight of stairs which the open door disclosed. By that time the sexton had reached the vestibule and, whistling as he worked, began to sweep it.

Rodney Galvin so far had been in a disappointment to his family. His father was determined he should be a business man, his mother had hoped that he would be a minister, but Rodney, so his father said, wrathfully, cared only for "tinkering." He detested all the disabled bicycles in town, and a broken watch or clock gave him joy. When he had been refused a position in the bank a month before, Rodney Grant had been taken instead. Rodney's only regret was that he should not have an opportunity to investigate the time clock on the bank safe. He watched for chances to wind the time clock, for he liked to study its works.

On this day he went with practiced tread up the dark stairs behind the gallery, along the narrow board walk laid across the beams in the garret floor, up another long flight of rude steps, and then he climbed the almost perpendicular ladder which led to the clock room.

Around him were backs of the four great dials up to which the citizens of Graytown looked when they wished to set their watches. The works of the clock were in the middle of the room. Taking a big movable iron crank from the floor, Rodney tilted it up to the end of the arbor, or spindle, and began turning it to wind up the stout wire rope to which one of the clock weights was fastened.

The town clock of Graytown is nearly as old as the church in which it is placed, but the people of the village cherish it and would not think of having it replaced by one of more modern style. As a consequence the sexton of the church had to climb up to the clock room in the spire once every week unless he could get some one to go for him and wind up from the basement, to which they had spent the previous week in descending, the blocks of granite that served as clock weights.

It seemed to Rodney this afternoon as if the machinery worked uncommonly hard, and after turning the crank a few times he dropped it and went back down stairs.

"I think that pulley needs greasing," he said. "I never knew the old clock to wind so hard."

"I shouldn't wonder but what it does," was the sexton's answer. "I haven't got a bit of oil here, though," he added.

"I've got some down to the house that'll do," said the boy. "I'll go and get it."

"All right," said the sexton. "If I get through before you come back, I'll leave the doors unlocked and the keys on the window sill."

"There isn't anything the matter with the weights, is there?" asked Rodney, opening the narrow door which gave access to the shaft in which one of the clock weights ran from belfry to basement. There was nothing to be seen. The square block of stone which just filled the space had been wound up out of sight.

When he went out on the street, Rodney found people wildly excited. The national bank had been robbed. The teller was out of town, and while the cashier had been at dinner Harry Grant, the clerk, had been knocked senseless and the robbery effected. Seventeen hundred dollars in money and many valuable papers were gone.

Little Mary Grant reported having seen a strange man on the street with a leather handbag. Harry Grant was still too stunned to talk coherently.

Rodney hurried on for the oil. He wanted to get back, wind the clock and lock the church and then join in the search for the robber.

Oiling the pulley did not seem to make it work much easier. There was a small opening at the top of the shaft through which the weight could be seen when it was raised into place. Watching this opening as he toiled at the crank, Rodney saw appearing not the block of granite, but a man's head.

He dropped the crank. If the machinery had not worked automatically, man and weight might have fallen to the basement.

"How did you get in there?" Rodney gasped.

"No matter," said the man. "I'll give you $100 if you'll help me out and say nothing about it."

"How did you get in there?" Rodney repeated.

When he had been down on the street, he had heard the little girl who had seen the bank robber telling a group of excited people that the strange man had a smooth face and wore a brown derby hat. This man had a smooth face and wore a brown derby hat.

"You are the bank robber?" said Rodney.

"You help me out, and I'll make it $200," said the man.

"Are you the man that robbed the bank?"

"You get me out of this trap!"

The man kicked savagely against the inside of the shaft and, bracing himself as well as he could in the cramped space, tried to burst the walls apart. The joints creaked, but the strength of six men could not have broken out the planks of which the shaft was built.

"You better stop that wigging in there," said Rodney. "The rope isn't fastened any too solid through that rock. If you yank it out, you and the rock will go down to the basement together. It's 73 feet down there."

The "wigging" stopped, and the man's face appeared at the hole again. The opening was not more than eight inches square, and only the head of the captive was even with it, but a moment later the muzzle of a revolver came up into sight beside his face. Before the man could get his cramped arm and hand into aiming position Rodney, quick as a flash, knocked the catch out of a ratchet in the clock-works and, grasping the crank, turned it backward until he had lowered his prisoner far enough down the shaft so that he could do no harm.

Fearing sure that his prisoner was safe for the present, Rodney decided to go for help.

Some boys would have rushed from the church, shouting, "I've got him!" but Rodney walked carefully down the street with his hands in his pockets and joined the outer edge of a crowd in front of the bank. A hastily printed notice on which the ink was not yet dry announced that the bank would pay $500 for the capture of the robber, with his plunder. The town added another $100 to the reward.

Rodney's fingers twisted nervously in his pockets. Six hundred dollars! That meant for him the institute of technology. If he asked for help to secure the man, he could claim only part of the reward.

He left the group of excited men as quietly as he had come and went to a tinshop near by. The proprietor was out, but Rodney knew him and the place well. He quickly found the things he wanted and took them—a small portable furnace with a charcoal fire in it, a long handled skillet used for melting lead and a handful of sulphur. Taking these with him to the church vestibule, he locked the outside door and once more climbed the stairs into the steeple.

ABOUT THE PULP MILL.

A Springfield, Mass., Report and What Messrs. Page and Bartlett Say.

A dispatch sent out from Springfield, Mass., on Tuesday evening stated that the prospects for a pulp and paper mill in this city were as follows:

The White Mountain Paper company, the name adopted by the promoters, a $25,000,000 corporation, is rapidly being formed and will soon be incorporated under New Jersey laws. William B. Plunkett of Adams, Mass., is to be president of the company, and among others interested not before mentioned, are former Congressman William G. Whiting of Holyoke, George P. James of Boston, and Colonel McCook and Gen. A. C. Barnes of New York.

The company has, as previously told, acquired about 625 square miles of spruce and poplar timber land in New Hampshire and Maine, south and east of Mount Washington, a tract equal in extent to one fifth of the state of New Hampshire.

In Portsmouth will be built the largest paper mill in the world, with an output of 500 tons of book and print paper a day.

Mr. Bartlett, of the firm of Page & Bartlett, who are interested in the matter says:

"The pulp and paper mill people have not decided to come here.

"We have not secured options on certain parts of the real estate that are absolutely indispensable. We do not care to give the names of those who have not decided to sell. They may decide later and we are in hopes they will. The danger is in their delaying so long that some other of the places under consideration will be decided upon instead of Portsmouth.

"The publication of the names of certain parties as being interested in the project is denied by those in charge of the matter. It is hoped, that the project will come here and every effort is being made to have it come here."

IN SUPERIOR COURT.

The Hutchings-Shea Case Finished and New Grand Jury Reports.

The Hutchings-Shea case, an action for alleged malicious prosecution, was completed in the superior court at 10.30 this forenoon and went to the jury.

The new grand jury arrived on the forenoon train and went into session under the instruction of County Solicitor J. W. Kelley of Portsmouth. The new grand jury is as follows:

Edwin Plummer, Aquaria; Elwell O. Wallleigh, Brentwood; Jeanees E. Dearborn, Candia; V. S. Tilton, Eet Kingston; George H. Swain, Epping; Charles H. Lord, Exeter; Walter J. Carlsle, Exeter; James D. Norris, Greenland; Joseph J. Dearborn, Hampden; Bert Janvin, Hampton Falls; John W. York, Kensington; Seth F. Nelson, Kingston; Albert D. Jenness, New Cass; C. C. Fowler, Newfields; G. W. Knox, Newington; O. G. Mathes, Newmarket; A. E. Locke, North Hampton; Edwin T. Brown, Raymond; Irvin W. Guilford, Rye; Jacob Dow, Seabrook.

Charles H. Lord of Exeter was ex-cused and Walter J. Carlsle of Exeter was appointed foreman of the jury.

In the case of Mrs. Lucy Leavitt vs. the Portsmouth, Kittery & York Street railway, after being out three hours, a verdict for the plaintiff of $1300. This suit was brought by Mrs. Leavitt to recover damages for falling from an electric car while alighting, Nov. 20, 1900.

The verdict returned in the Hutchings-Shea case was $1200 for the plaintiff.

At the finish of the above case, the action of Mary Alder, Portsmouth, vs. Albert Batchelder, North Hampton, for alleged personal injuries by a defect in machinery sold to the plaintiff, was begun before a jury. The jury was taken to Hampton.

IN PROBATE COURT.

Income of Trust Fund to Go to Poor Widows of Londonderry.

EXETER, Oct. 23.—At today's probate court William D. Watson of Northwood settled his account as guardian of the late Clara W. Bagnall of that town. Her estate consisted solely of an annuity policy for $1000, dated Jan. 1, 1840. Mr. Watson was appointed administrator. The policy had matured at the time of Mrs. Bagnall's death.

Lucian H. Nesmith today settled his account as executor of the will of Zoe A. Flanders of Londonderry. He has on hand a trust fund, the income of which is to buy meal, flour and fish for Londonderry's worthy poor American widows and children under 10.

The town refused to accept the bequest and litigation over it ensued, the supreme court finally ruling that the bequest must stand and should be paid to trustees, not yet appointed. The total trust fund is $2004.28.

BARN BURNED FLAT.

The Shuttlesworth Place Visited by a Serious Blaze.

A large, handsome barn on the Shuttlesworth farm, off the Islington road and nearly opposite the stand-pipe, was burned to the ground between four and five o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. Children playing with matches was the cause of the fire, it is said.

The barn contained about sixty tons of hay, all the farming tools necessary on a large farming place, but the live stock was saved. The house caught fire while the barn was burning, but the department saved the home building, situated near the burned structure.

An alarm was rung in from box 78 at 4.45 o'clock. A second alarm was rung in from the box at about five o'clock for a brush fire that was a probable result of sparks from the burning building. It was at first necessary to put the hose across the tracks of the electric and steam railroads and travel over the latter was delayed until Chief Randall had a small torch rig under the rails and a shift of lines quickly made to the trench. The electric transferred their passengers where the hose was across the tracks and comparatively little time was lost on the local conveyances.

The loss of the barn and farming tools amounts to about $3,500, and the building was insured for a small amount.

Chief Randall called the attention of a Chronicle reporter to the great need of new hose. The chief states that the sections used next to the engine and next to the pipe on Tuesday afternoon were in such a rotten condition that it was necessary to take them out and the sections replaced were in such bad condition that the streets were gullied out by the leaks.

Every inch of hose possessed by the city was in use at the fire, two engines answering to alarms. Chief Randall states that the department is really handicapped for effective service by the need of new hose and he is fearful that at some critical period the old stuff now in use may give out and the department be totally crippled as a result.

The chief wants those facts known by the public, and it is nothing is done to remedy the danger that exists, he will refuse to take the blame for something for which he is unable to prevent.

ANNUAL SESSION.

Advents Hold Interesting Exercises at Hanover Street Church.

The forty eighth annual session of the New Hampshire Advent conference is being held in this city. The delegates commenced to arrive on Tuesday and the session opened at 1.45 p. m. that day, and after the members were called to order, the conference gave way to the New Hampshire Sunday School union which took up the afternoon and evening with routine business. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Elder James McLaughlin of London; vice president, Elder H. E. Little of Warren; secretary and treasurer, Miss Florence E. Haley of Exeter.

Papers were read by Elder H. E. Shattuck of Dover and Miss Hiley of Exeter.

This morning the sessions of the regular conference were resumed and a most interesting address was delivered by Elder S. M. Wales of East Rochester.

The election of officers resulted in the choice of the following: President, Elder Joseph Miett of Manchester; vice president, Elder H. E. Shattuck, Dover; secretary, Elder C. B. Fletcher, North Newport; treasurer, Elder Leslie E. Dean.

The election of Elder Fletcher as secretary was greeted with hearty congratulations as this will mark his thirty first consecutive term in that capacity.

There are over one hundred delegates present and the members are taking a deep interest in the affairs of the society.

WENDELL—NICKERSON.

Pretty Wedding at the Home of the Bride on Miller Avenue.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Ella Nickerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Nickerson of Miller avenue, to Harry W. Wendell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Wendell, occurred at the home of the bride's parents at five o'clock on Tuesday evening in the presence of the families of the couple and a few invited near friends.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor of the home by the Rev. Thomas Whiteside, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, and the bride was attended by little Misses Blanche Bell and Marion Andrews, while the groom was attended by Master Frank Andrews, who acted as ring bearer. The ceremony was happily much out of the routine character and was very pleasingly performed.

The bride's dress was white organdie over silk, plaited and trimmed with lace insertion. She wore a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of white pinks and maiden-hair ferns.

A wedding reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Wendell are to reside on Miller avenue. The bride has the deepest respect of a community of friends and the groom is a young man who has a host of well wishers. That the happiest relationship and the fullest joys may be the future store of the couple is the hope of a very large circle.

INTERESTING WEDDING.

Frank T. Clarkson and Miss Bertha B. Wentworth Married.

At the Congregational parsonage in this city on Tuesday occurred the wedding of Miss Bertha Blanche Wentworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Gates Wentworth of Portsmouth, to Frank Thomas Clarkson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clarkson of Kittery Point. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the North church, Rev. Lucius H. Thayer.

The bride was dressed in pearl grey Henrietta; waist trimmed with silk to match, combined with cream applique; hat of velvet and silk.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Maud B. Wentworth of Newburyport, whose dress was a black silk; skirt, white silk waist, and a black velvet hat with white satin facings.

The best man was Fred W. Wentworth, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 2 Cornwall street, and the couple left on the evening train for Boston and thence go to Buffalo to visit the Pan-American exposition.

The bride's travelling suit was of black cheviot, silk lined, light blue silk waist, and black velvet hat with white silk crown and black tips.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson will reside at Kittery Point where the groom is engaged in business, their home being temporarily made in the Clarkson block until their new house is completed.

HELEN KELLER'S HAND.

A Plaster Cast of it in the Collection of Laurence Hutton.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 23.—Mr. Laurence Hutton is making a collection of plaster casts of hands. He already has about fifteen specimens. He brought back with him from Europe recently the original cast of the hand of Thomas Carlyle, which he picked up in a London shop for a trifling sum. Among others in the collection are likenesses of the hands of Rossetti, Robert Louis Stevenson, Lincoln and Thackeray, and the mummified hand of an Egyptian princess of the time of Moses. These Mr. Hutton has hanging on the walls of his library.

He also has a cast of the hand of Helen Keller, the wonderful blind mute, which he regards very highly on account of its artistic finish. All the lines in the skin, and even the little nerve cushions on the tips of her fingers with which she feels in the plaster. Beneath each cast Mr. Hutton has written some appropriate lines.

LOW PRICES.

Many people shout Low Prices. The prices are low—so is the quality of the goods. We say low prices and we back up the statement with a good strong reason. We can make the best clothing—make it as well as it can be made—at low prices, because our expenses are light and we have many patrons. There is no use throwing money away. There is no use paying any more for perfection than you have to. We will be glad to see you at any time.
